Action Items

based on the seller, style, size, brand, and price, among other criteria

@seanmccartney@stockx.com : I don't know if we want to give this level of detail. First, it isn't as impressive as image (which is coming soon and many competitors use) and second it tips our hand to the people trying to sell fakes.

Maybe we say something like "Our Machine Learning Model analyzes the product based on over 20 different dimensions, before the item undergoes..."

6.5M historical authentications

Shervin Moghaddam

@seanmccartney@stockx.com : I'll also get a number for the total data points we use. Should be billions.

Sam is out today so may take a little while for the team to find the information

Noted. Please update draft with the placeholder language for the billions reference. That would be powerful.

Do we want to add anything about continuing education for authenticators with weekly trainings for the latest products

Shervin Moghaddam

I think that makes sense. FYI the machine learning models are updated weekly to pull in the new data from the last week. Up to you if you want to pull that into the same paragraph

Good question. Let me take a stab at this.
